In this episode of everything compliance Cordery's Jonathan Armstrong looks at fascinating couple of cases working their way through the English courts, the Morrison and Carphone Warehouse cases. They each have very interesting angles including the reliability of audit staff, liability of the employer for an employee's criminal and individual criminal liability in the data breach situation. The podcast is chaired by Tom Fox and also features Matt Kelly, Mike Volkov and Jay Rosen who discuss a number of compliance topics including:

- the new FCPA Corporate Enforcement Policy
- microchip meltdowns and vendor risk
- the continued internationalization of anti-bribery/anti-corruption enforcement
