Each year in January we sit down and reflect what are likely to be the compliance challenges of the year ahead. We share this information with our clients to help them predict their likely compliance challenges and we thought it would be interesting again in 2017 to share some of our thoughts more widely. We have made a series of short films grouping some of the trends that we are seeing into five key themes. Each video is a short summary of what we are expecting in the next twelve months.

Take a look at our website for more details of what we do.

These videos are simply predictions and do not constitute legal advice. No-one should act or refrain from acting on the basis of the thoughts expressed in the videos. See our full terms and conditions for more details.
