

Episode 241: Internet censorship on the rise?

Date : February 12, 2019

In this week's podcast, Jonathan and Eric ask the question, 'how free is the internet?'

They look at internet censorship in Vietnam where new laws have been introduced to 'take down' any content deemed toxic by the Government of Vietnam. Vietnam has attracted a lot of tech business in recent years – what effect will this clampdown have? Will international and business pressure cause the Government of Vietnam to reconsider its position? What about enforcement?

These and other questions and considerations are explored in this fascinating podcast.

TechLaw10 is a 10-minute audio podcast update from U.S. lawyer Eric Sinrod (Duane Morris) and UK lawyer Jonathan Armstrong \(Cordery\) where they share insights on developments where technology intersects with the law in the EU and the U.S. These well-known commentators are sought out in the media for their opinions on breaking news and developing trends. Whether you are in North America or Europe, now you can hear directly from them regarding the latest technology issues at home and across the pond.