André Bywater of Cordery Compliance and Scott Giordano of Spirion present a webinar on everything you need to know about Brexit, Data Protection, E-Privacy & Cybersecurity

Brexit, the U.K.'s departure from the European Union, was scheduled to take place on 29 March (subject to current fast-moving developments) and has produced a substantial amount of uncertainty in nearly every aspect of the relationship between the two parties. Among these uncertainties are how data protection matters will be addressed for personal data that is currently transferring or scheduled to be transferred from the EU to the U.K.

Common questions about this include the degree that the GDPR and other data protection-related legislation will apply to U.K.-based organizations, the prospect for an "adequacy" decision by the European Commission, what type of cross-border transfer mechanisms are available, and what changes need to be made to privacy statements.

In this interactive webinar, André Bywater, partner at Cordery in London, describes post-Brexit scenarios and how to best prepare, whatever the outcome, as well as answer your questions. Issues concerning cybersecurity in the UK are also addressed.

Takeaways include:

- Data protection best practices for those conducting business in the U.K.
- Working with your third parties to maintain continuity
- How EU data protection legislation will be enforced
